father, who was formerly of St. Paul, and is now rector of the American church in Rome. Mr. Sedgwick was rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist in St. Paul for a number of years. Mrs. Sedgwick was formerly Miss Mary Bend of St. Paul.

The wedding took place at St. Andrew's Memorial church at Yonkers, where Mr. Sedgwick was formerly the rector. The church was decorated in a color scheme of pink, white and blue, with roses, peonies and other garden flowers. Only members of the immediate families attended the wedding and the reception, which was given at the home of the bride's parents in Yonkers.

White mousseline de soie was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her picture hat was of white crocheted straw with white velvet streamers. She carried a bouquet of white garden flowers.

Miss Joan Hurt was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown of pale pink chiffon, fashioned similar to that of the bride, but with a sleeveless bodice and cape at the back. Her hat of pink straw was trimmed with blue satin ribbon. She carried pink delphinium and snapdragons.

Harold B. Sedgwick was his brother's best man. The ushers were Charles Sedgwick, another brother; Henry Hurt and William Hurt, brothers of the bride; and Robert Howe, a classmate of the bridegroom at Harvard University.
